The annual Ganesh Chaturthi festival is a significant cultural and religious event in India, marked by the installation and worship of Lord Ganesha idols. However, the traditional practice of Ganesh Visarjan (immersion of idols in water bodies) has raised environmental concerns due to the pollution caused by non-biodegradable materials used in idols and decorations. To promote eco-friendly practices, the National Service Scheme (NSS) students took an active part in the Ganesh Visarjan process, focusing on environmental awareness and sustainability. This initiative aimed to educate the public about the environmental impact of the Visarjan and encourage the use of eco-friendly materials, while also assisting in the safe and responsible immersion of idols. Total 26 NSS Volunteers participated for the event.

The key objectives of the NSS students' involvement in the Ganesh Visarjan for environmental awareness were:

Awareness Campaigns: Before the Visarjan day, NSS volunteers conducted door-to-door campaigns and distributed leaflets about the environmental impact of plaster of Paris (PoP) idols, chemical paints, and synthetic decorations. They encouraged households to opt for eco-friendly clay idols and natural decorations like leaves, flowers, and organic colours.

Eco-Friendly Idol Promotion: NSS students partnered with local artisans and environmental NGOs to promote and distribute eco-friendly Ganesha idols. These idols were made from clay and natural materials that dissolve easily in water without harming aquatic life.

Designated Immersion Points: On the day of Ganesh Visarjan, NSS students assisted in setting up and managing artificial immersion tanks and ponds. These tanks were set up by local authorities to reduce pollution in natural water bodies. NSS volunteers helped devotees immerse their idols in these tanks and explained how this practice helps in preserving the environment.

Post-Visarjan Clean-Up: After the immersion process, NSS students conducted clean-up drives at the immersion points to remove waste materials such as flowers, plastics, and decorations. This activity ensured that the areas remained clean and that non-biodegradable waste did not enter water bodies.

The participation of NSS students in the Ganesh Visarjan process to promote environmental awareness was a significant step towards a greener and more sustainable celebration of the Ganesh festival. Through their efforts, they successfully raised awareness about the environmental impact of traditional Visarjan practices, promoted the use of eco-friendly materials, and helped protect water bodies from pollution. The initiative showcased the important role that youth and educational institutions can play in addressing environmental challenges and fostering a culture of sustainability. By combining tradition with environmental responsibility, the NSS students helped ensure that the festival was not only a celebration of faith but also a commitment to protecting nature for future generations.

The right to vote is one of the fundamental pillars of any democratic society, and its exercise is a civic duty of every eligible citizen. To reinforce the importance of voting and encourage greater participation in elections, voter awareness campaigns are conducted globally. One crucial aspect of these campaigns is taking a pledge for voter awareness, which symbolizes a commitment to participate in the democratic process and spread the message of informed voting. The primary goal of taking a pledge for voter awareness is to encourage responsible voting. The pledge serves as a personal affirmation of one's responsibility to participate in elections and to motivate others to do the same. Through such initiatives, the intention is to: Ensure that citizens understand the importance of their vote. Promote the idea of informed voting, where voters make decisions based on knowledge of candidates, policies, and issues. Reduce voter apathy, particularly among young people and first-time voters. Create a more participatory democracy where every eligible citizen exercises their voting rights.

On 22/02/2024, a Voter Awareness Pledge event was organized at T. C. College Baramti, which gathered students, local citizens, and volunteers. The event was part of a broader voter awareness campaign aimed at increasing turnout in the upcoming elections. Representatives from local electoral bodies and civil society organizations were present to educate attendees on the significance of voting and the process involved. The event commenced with a formal pledge-taking ceremony, where attendees vowed to exercise their voting rights and encourage others to do the same. Interactive Sessions: A question-and-answer session followed the pledge ceremony, where attendees expressed their concerns regarding electoral issues, the voter registration process, and polling day logistics. Local volunteers also shared stories about their past experiences with elections, adding personal anecdotes to highlight the importance of voter participation. Voter Registration Drive: To simplify the voting process, the event included a voter registration booth where eligible citizens could register to vote or update their electoral details. There were 104 students participated with holistic response.

Out come : Taking the pledge for voter awareness is a vital step toward strengthening democratic participation. Through such initiatives, citizens are reminded of their power and responsibility in shaping the future of their country. The event not only encouraged voting but also promoted the importance of being an informed and engaged voter. By spreading the message of voter awareness, we take one step closer to ensuring a vibrant, participatory democracy where every voice is heard.
